

Are you having a problem setting column width or height per SAM instructions? This is what the text has to say:

What if I am unable to drag to set the exact column widths and row heights specified?

Depending on your display settings, you may be unable to set the exact column widths and row heights by dragging. In this case, right-click the column or row heading to resize, click Column Width (for columns) or Row Height (for rows) to display the Column Width or Row Height dialog box, type the exact column width or row height, and then click OK.

FYI: SAM may NOT deduct points if you are unable to set exact column width and row height. Once you submit your project, you will know if SAM accepts your method for setting column width and/or row height.
